WELCOME AND SPECIAL ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Welcome and Bienvenidos to the WPSA's 2011 Annual Meeting and to our beautiful city of San Antonio. We are very excited to host this year's conference, especially since this is the first time in the history of the WPSA that we meet in San Antonio.

For many, the city is best known for its famous Riverwalk and historic Alamo. But there is so much more to visit. San Antonio boasts of being an historic city, originating close to 300 years ago under Spanish colonial rule, then as part of Mexico, to Texas Independence and finally statehood in the United States. It is also a culturally rich city with over 60% of its population made of Hispanics, predominantly Mexican American, and only 2 1/2 hours from the U.S.-Mexico border. The city has a history of being multi-lingual: English, Spanish, German, and of course Tex-Mex.

In addition, San Antonio has various distinct neighborhoods, offering something for everyone to explore. The downtown area, alone, has historical buildings, such as the San Fernando Cathedral which dates back to 1738, the Alamo (one of five of the original 18th century Spanish Missions) to the Tower of the Americas at Hemisfair Park that originates from the city's 1968 World's Fair. Visitors are also in for a special treat since the Riverwalk has now been extended connecting Art, Museums and Historic Landmarks, offering long walks (or by River boat taxis) in either direction. If you head south from downtown, you'll walk through the beautiful King William Historic District leading you to the Guenther House, which offers a wonderful breakfast. If you walk further, you'll wind up in one of the city's artsy communities, the Blue Star Arts complex and various local galleries along Alamo street. If you walk north from downtown along the Riverwalk, then you will walk past several art installations along the way leading up to the San Antonio Museum which houses many permanent exhibits including an elaborate Latin American collection. If you walk further, you will witness the ingenuity of the locks and dam on the river, and wind up at the Pearl Brewery Development, where you can check out some local shops, including the Twig Bookstore, a few unique restaurants, and a Farmer's Market on Saturday mornings. The Streetcar Trolleys downtown provide visitors to most of the must-see locations in San Antonio, from the Market Square (the largest Mexican Mercado north of Mexico), the Hemisfair Park, the Institute of Texan Cultures, and the King William Historic District, among others. Shoppers will have plenty to do at the River Center Mall, the Market Square, or among the many shops downtown.

WELCOME AND SPECIAL ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

We are pleased to welcome everyone to San Antonio. Enjoy the conference and our beautiful city. We hope our dining and entertainment guide will ensure you have a wonderful experience, and we'll see y'all again very soon. Bueno, bye.

Special Acknowledgments

The Western Political Science Association meeting has always been special as it was the first professional political science meeting I ever attended. The meeting has a friendliness and openness that everyone who attends recognizes. The reason that the Western has this 'feel' about it is due not only to those who attend the meeting but also the people running the conference itself.

All conferences depend on their section chairs to perform what is the often thankless 'behind the scenes' task of organizing panels. I would like to thank each and every one of them for the terrific job they have done. Our section chairs, all of whom are listed in the program, have done an excellent job in putting together an interesting range of first rate panels that will showcase innovative, and cutting edge research conducted by association members. I would also like to note a personal thank you to – my predecessor – Christine Di Stefano for her advice, help especially during the early months of my tenure as program chair.

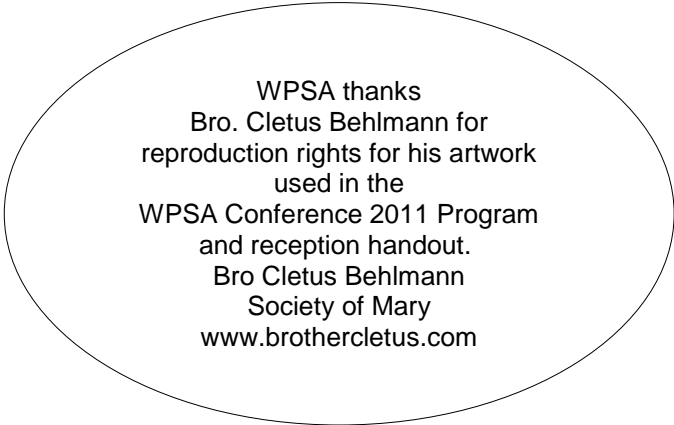

Many people have contributed to the continuing vibrancy of WPSA, including staff, section chairs, executive council members, committee chairs and members. I would especially like to thank Sonia Garcia, Celine Jacquemin and Art Vega at St. Mary's University who were in charge of local arrangements. They have done a wonderful job with this year's arrangements and their suggestions about what to see, do and where to eat in San Antonio. I would also like to give a special thanks to Brother Cletus Behlmann, S.M., for allowing us to use his beautiful artwork of San Antonio for the cover of this year's program. I hope you will get a chance during your stay to take in the River Walk and the surrounding area of historic villages and museums in beautiful San Antonio.

WELCOME AND SPECIAL ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

We would also like to thank St. Mary's University for its financial support provided by President Charles L. Cottrell, the Dean of Graduate School Henry Flores and its Political Science Department.

Finally I want express my deep appreciation and thanks to the hard work, the thoughtfulness and grace of Elsa Favila our Associate Director and the great leadership of Richard Clucas our new Executive Director. All of us in the association owe a debt to the dedication of Elsa and Richard in keeping our organization running smoothly especially in these difficult economic times. Only after becoming embroiled in the details of the program did I grasp how much we owe to their hard work, dedication and their invaluable sense of humor. Thank you both for keeping me on my toes!

(RE)IMAGINING OUR FUTURE(S):
OBAMA’S ELECTION, GLOBAL CRISES, AND POLITICAL SCIENCE PRACTICES

For many in the U.S. and abroad, the 2008 election of Barack Obama marked a seeming turning point—the emergence onto the world stage of Martin Luther King’s envisioned dream of inclusiveness and full citizenship for all. How might we understand, then, the politics of the last four years? As the inevitable sobering of impossible expectations? As further evidence of the diminishing power of the U.S. as economic, military, and political hegemon? As indicative of a new stage in partisan politics marked by unfettered media and increasing ingovernability? As the deeply racial consequences of the contradictions of the American founding? As verification that the U.S. political system fails, as before, to produce the leadership needed for pressing national and global problems, from infrastructure to the environment, immigration to terrorism?

Do present political science disciplinary “practices” – our selection and definition of problems, our methodological and theoretical approaches to those research questions, our forms of publishing and circulating that knowledge – nourish the kinds of imagination needed to address the future, whether through theoretical analysis or policy advice or as teachers preparing the next generations of Americans? Or do our ossified subfield classifications, the disciplining of research through institutional review boards, increasing performance management of faculty

CALL FOR PAPERS – 2012 ANNUAL MEETING

“output,” and impending mandatory data archiving threaten the possibilities of thinking in more generative ways?

Its traditions of innovation and inclusiveness mean that the WPSA is well situated to address this panoply of issues. We invite panels and paper proposals that assess the ways in which political science and scientists have engaged the substantive national and international experiences of the last four years and others that look more forward. We also welcome discussions of how political science practices can be moved toward greater relevance and theoretical-analytic and methodological pluralism.

Note: All participants in the program are required to preregister for the meeting by early December.

REGIONS AND COHESION

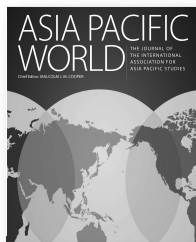

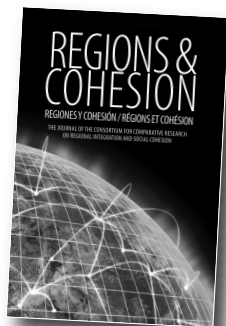

Regiones y Cohesión / Régions et Cohésion

Editors: Harlan Koff and Carmen Maganda

The journal of the Consortium for Comparative Research on Regional Integration and Social Cohesion (RISC), a cross-regional, interdisciplinary, and multi-lingual network of socially conscious and prestigious research institutes in Europe, North America, South America and Africa.

Regions and Cohesion provides a needed platform for academics and practitioners alike to disseminate both empirical research and normative analysis of topics related to human security and social cohesion. It covers themes, such as the management of strategic resources, environment and society, social risk and marginalization, disasters and policy responses, violence, war and urban security, the quality of democracy, development, public health, immigration, human rights, organized crime, and cross-border human security.
